Good Morning Alfredo,

This morning, regretfully, I received your letter of intent to resign from your position. We recognize and accept your decision.

I understand that your last day is Monday, April 9. The departure of an excellent employee is always a bittersweet event. You will be missed, but we all hope the best for you. Your contributions to our team, particularly to the model development, were excellent.

It has been a pleasure working with you, and I wish you continued success in your new job. Please keep in touch.

All the best,

Anusha Varadarajan
